> Why should a railroad furnish a special train for a week, with its crew, n order that farmers' meetings may be held in various parts of the state? It is because the railroad officials are sagacious enough to perceive that the upbuilding of Vermont agriculture, the ncreasing of the crops of farmers along the line of railway means ultimately a more prosperous state, which means more freight and more passengers for the railroad to carry.

winning its way, slowly but surely.

The state, through its agricultural college and its department of agriculture, headed by such progressive men as Pro. J. L. Hills and Hon, O. L. Martin, sanctions and directs this planting of ideas in the expectation of reaping a profitable harvest. The men and women assembled for the work are experts and there can be no doubt that next fall the Vermont crops will better because of this trip of the better farming special. More than that farming in this region will be conducted more intelligently for many years because this work has been done. It will be profitable thing for the state, and for the railroads of the state, if this farming special is made an annual feature at the opening of each agricultural season in Vermont.
